III. Reading

Basset hounds are dogs with long floppy ears, short legs, and a charming but sad-looking face. Don't let their appearance fool you, they are usually cheerful and outgoing. They can get on well with everyone. So, if you need a dog to protect you or your house, having bassetts is not the best option. Bassetts are more eager to make friends with unexpected guests rather than bark at them. Bassetts love people, when they are on their own, they suffer from loneliness. When they are left alone, you can suspect long periods of howling and other undesirable behaviours. So, try to be with bassetts all the time. You can leave small children with them because bassetts love kids, but, it's important to teach children how to play with dogs.

Bassetts are fond of hunting, so if they catch an interesting scent, they'll follow it. They will forget about the whole world. But, don't worry, they are also fans of long naps in the armchair. As you can see, bassetts are a bit moody, they are sometimes full of energy and when they can, they turn into couch potatoes. As for movement, bassetts shouldn't often climb stairs, they have really short legs, and repeated climbing can cause serious health issues. You should take under control hounds' eyes and especially long ears. You must clean them every week to avoid any infections. Bassetts' nails should be trimmed frequently.

Training bassetts is a difficult and long task, they are smart but not very eager to listen to your commands. They do what they want.
